1. The success of any military effort is dependent to a large degree upon how completely the general public backs and supports that effort. Such support can only be attained in the fullest degree when the public is fully and thoroughly acquainted with the missions, problems and objectives of the military program. It is largely for this reason that Public Relations has been established as an operating agency within the Air Forces and charged with the responsibility of disseminating information of an informative and educational nature to the public through all available media.

2. The fullest prosecution of this responsibility is essential at this time. I am happy therefore, to commend you for the outstanding contribution you are making, as indicated by the attached letters, towards the success of the AAF public relations mission.

3. Copies of this letter and the correspondence attached hereto will be made a part of your permanent record.

Dear Capt. Turnbull:

The script written by Sgt. Millard Lampell and broadcast on your Columbia network series on Friday November 10, 1944, has been selected as the "Script-of-the-Month" for December. It will be issued in mimeograph form to about seven hundred patriotic groups for purely local non-commercial, royalty-free use. These selections have been made monthly since the summer of 1942 in a cooperative undertaking between the Writers' War Board and the Association for Education by Radio.

For our purposes this script will be known under the title "Talk Their Language".

May I add my congratulations not only for this particular script, but for your whole series?

Sincerely yours,

Robert J. Landry
